Recount – Making a Marble Maze

Last Thursday, Mr Barry divided us in groups for a project in the English Room.

First, we watched some videos and chose our project. Next, we decided to make a marble maze. Then, we drew a plan. After that, we took some recycled cardboard and glued our maze on that. Next, we poked holes in our maze. Then, we cut out strips of our maze and glued them in squared cardboard. Finally, we marked 'start' and 'finish' points and put a marble in our maze.

We are excited to play with our marble maze.

Penny practised hard every Monday and Sunday in the park.

Penny was scared when she was on the stage because she forgot the song lyrics.

In the end, Penny saw James and Emma holding up a banner with the song lyrics on it. Penny suddenly felt confident and started to sing the song. At last, she won a prize. James said, "You did it, Penny!"

I Admire Oceanographers

I admire oceanographers. It is interesting because they explore deep down in the ocean and study the creatures in the ocean and geography of the ocean. It can be dangerous because animals might attack them, or they might lose oxygen underwater. We can get a job at Ocean Park and study corals and reefs, algae, giant clams, mangroves, and spend time monitoring marine animals.

Sylvia Earle is a hero because she gives opportunities to women to do research. She also led women to the deepest part of the ocean. Her job is dangerous because she risks her life for science. Some things one can do now are: we can learn how to swim, how to perform CPR, learn about sea creatures, visit aquariums, save sea creatures, walk on the ocean floor, and visit laboratories. She said, "Don't wait. We must solve the environmental problems now!" I think being an oceanographer is an interesting job because she helps people save the ocean.

If you want to become an oceanographer, you can take a four-year BSc in environmental science at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology. After graduating you can work at a marine park (Ocean Park, Wetland Park) as a teacher, work with conservation groups, do research and ecotourism. You can use knowledge to show how the environment is integrated between living things and their ecosystems and people. You can use your judgment to interpret and critically analyze data as well as draw conclusions from experience and field studies. You can communicate your environmental knowledge through presentations. Studying the ocean and biology helps you understand life on earth better!

Sports Day Event

Wow! Last Sports Day was fantastic and great!

My friend, Henry, and I were practising running for the 100m race. We were practising at the sports ground track. After we finished, we took a rest for 45 minutes and we ate something because we were hungry. So the next day, we were practising running until I said, "My legs and even my feet hurt! I think I should give up."

Before the race started, Henry walked to me and shook hands. He encouraged me with a smile. He said, "Try your very best." I felt relaxed and finally I finished the race. I won the 100m race!

I felt very happy and excited. I have learnt that faith will move mountains!

I Want to be a Firefighter

I want to be a firefighter because they save people from dangerous fires. Firefighters are strong, brave, fit and courageous.

In a forest fire, one team of firefighters digs a fire line, another team burns dead trees and leaves, and another team cuts down trees. In the city, firefighters use fire extinguishers, water hydrants and fire-retardant substances to put out fires. They also use manual and powered tools to break barriers such as doors, walls, and windows to rescue people in burning or collapsed structures. Lee Nelson is a hero because he saves the forest animals, people, children and their belongings from fire.

Things you could do now to become a firefighter are play sports on a team, do more exercise, work on a farm, learn how to swim and play on a zip line. You can also learn first aid. Some exercises which firefighters do are run 1.5 miles in 22 minutes 30 seconds, 10 pull-ups, 60 sit-ups and 35 push-ups. They lift heavy equipment upstairs. To become a firefighter in Hong Kong, you must get a Level 2 Grade E or above in five subjects in the Hong Kong Certificate of Education Examination (HKCEE). You must know Chinese and English and speak Cantonese. You must pass an eyesight test, physical fitness test, aptitude test, Basic Law Test, and do the standard firefighting training.

I wish I could become a firefighter one day.

A Terrible Day

What a terrible day! It was so hot outside that Paul's mom wouldn't let him go outside. So Paul and his little brother Perry had to sit in the living room with an electric fan as well as a paper fan on Perry's hand. They were feeling very hot even though the electric fan was pointing directly at them.

Suddenly, Paul got an idea and said, 'Ah! Perry, let's go to the bathroom and "cool off."' So, they went into the bathroom, got some water guns and water leaking proof containers. They filled up the water guns and the bathtub and started to spray. There was water on the walls and on the floor. There were even tiny soap water drops on the ceiling! They finally felt cool and were over the moon.

Mom heard ruckus in the bathroom and discovered Paul and Perry's big mess. She yelled, 'Paul! Perry! What is the meaning of this? Clean it up! Now!' Paul and Perry started to clean up, they felt angry and tired.

After a while, it was all quiet, too quiet. Mom went to check on her sons. Then she found they were very weak and dehydrated. She laid them on their beds. They learnt that extreme pleasure is followed by sorrow. They would never do it again.

An Unhappy Day

What an unhappy day!

Last Monday, it was hot. Paul and his brother felt hot. They were already wearing shorts and vests, but still felt really hot. After a while, they turned on the air-conditioner and rested on the sofa. However, they still felt hot. So Paul's brother came up with an idea.

They went into the toilet with water guns and towels. They started to fight with water guns and even with the shower head. They were having so much fun!

Suddenly, their Mum swung the toilet door open and she saw water and soap everywhere. The toilet was very messy. She was having a very bad mood. Therefore, Mum told them to clean up the whole bathroom immediately. Paul and his brother felt exhausted so they tried to sneak out, but Mum caught them. Her face was as red as a bull. Paul and his brother finally felt sorry.

They learnt that extreme pleasure follows by sorrow.

A Terrible Day

It was a hot summer day. Paul and his little brother were sitting on the living room's sofa, they felt very hot. Paul's little brother was fanning himself with a paper fan, but that didn't help much. Suddenly, Paul had an incredible idea.

Paul suggested, 'How about we play in the bathroom with the new water gun?' His little brother loved the idea and they both rushed to the bathroom. They turned the tap on and splashed water everywhere. Everything, even the towels, was wet. They turned the bathroom upside down! They both were over the moon.

About half an hour later, Mum came back from shopping. She heard water coming out of the bathroom. She was in a bad mood. She screamed and dashed into the bathroom. Paul and his little brother were terrified to see their mom standing behind them. Mom was boiling with anger. She punished them so that they would not forget what happened.

Mom made them clean the whole bathroom and took away their video games and screen time. In the end, they learned that extreme pleasure is followed by sorrow.

Graduation Speech

Good morning Principal, teachers, parents and fellow schoolmates. Today is our graduation day. On behalf of my class, I am honoured to speak to all of you. Today is both a good day and a sad day. It is good because we are going to upgrade our lives. It is also sad because we will be separated from our friends.

We are grateful for all the unforgettable experiences at this school. I remember we had a trip to Disneyland before our summer holiday last year. It was so much fun that we went on many roller coasters and rides. I will never forget that trip. And we will never forget all the picnics we had. The best picnic was when we are in P.6. It was our last picnic, and it was the best one. We played a lot of outdoor games and adventure activities. We learned so much from these special experiences and built strong friendships.

All our teachers, school staff and fellow schoolmates have been wonderful. However, we want to give special thanks to some specific people. We want to thank our class teacher, Miss Ko for being a great leader for 6B. We also want to thank all our subject teachers for being patient to us. And our fellow schoolmates for being so supportive.

We are going to leave this school soon. However, we will always remember our time here. Once again, we want to thank all our teachers giving us such an excellent education. We will miss this school and we would like to wish everyone a bright future. Good luck to you all. Thank you.
